

Dear Editorial Team,

We, the authors of the manuscript titled "ChatGPT: A Pilot Study on a Promising Tool for Mental Health Support in Psychiatric Inpatient Care", hereby describe the contributions of each author in accordance with the ICMJE criteria for authorship and CRediT taxonomy as follows:

Antonio Melo: Dr. Melo was integral to the conception and design of the study. He carried out the patient interviews and interventions, providing both direct patient care and executing the implementation of the AI tool, ChatGPT, in the clinical setting. He also took a primary role in drafting and writing the manuscript.

Margarida Alves: Ms. Alves provided significant contributions to the writing of the manuscript. Her role encompassed both original drafting and revision of the content, ensuring the manuscript accurately and effectively conveyed the research and its results.

Maria Inês Silva and Joana Lopes: Both Dr. Silva and Dr. Lopes played a crucial role in reviewing and editing the manuscript. They critically evaluated the document for important intellectual content, making key suggestions for revisions and adjustments that substantially improved the manuscript.

All authors contributed equally to this work, reviewed, and approved the final version of the manuscript. Moreover, all authors agree to be accountable for all aspects of the work, ensuring that questions related to the accuracy or integrity of any part of the work are appropriately investigated and resolved.

We appreciate your consideration of our manuscript for publication in the European Journal of Psychiatric Trainees, and we look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Antonio Melo

Margarida Alves
